

Jeff Stokes holds an M.A. in General Linguistics from the University of Utah and a Ph.D. in the Instruction of Hispanic Language and Literature from Indiana University. He has been at Weber State University for 23 years. Dr. Stokes has taught many courses in language, linguistics and pedagogy, and has conducted seminars for language teachers on the national Standards and teaching for proficiency. His main research interests are in the areas of phonetics, second language acquisition and pedagogy. He has published a number of articles, including articles co-authored with Stephen Krashen, and has published a textbook on Spanish phonetics and phonology. Professor Stokes co-founded the Golden Spike Empire Language Alliance, and is a former president of the Utah Foreign Language Association.